Man Utd sack Michael Carrick after one league win in ten

Manchester United said on Thursday that Michael Carrick has left his role as head coach, with the club in the relegation zone after one win in 10 league games. Sky Sports says Mauricio Pochettino has agreed a deal to replace him. No official announcement had been made when we checked. This follows Wednesday's report that the club was reviewing his position.

> Why it matters: A story that grew all week, from a review to a sacking. Football fans are filling feeds.

Harry Kane becomes England's most-capped men's player

Harry Kane won his 126th cap on Thursday, passing Peter Shilton's 125, then scored the winning penalty, his 92nd England goal, in a 2-1 win over Croatia. BBC says Prince William and Shilton presented him with a framed shirt before kick-off. England are through to the Nations League quarter-finals and play Spain on Sunday.

> Why it matters: A record, a winner and a royal presentation in one night. A big shared moment.

Owain Wyn Evans's Children in Need ride passes £2.4m

BBC Radio 2's Owain Wyn Evans had raised more than £2.4 million for Children in Need by the end of Thursday's Day 4, up from £1.2m on Wednesday. His nearly 400-mile ride finishes in Cardiff today, which is also appeal night on BBC One from 7pm. The hosts are Alex Jones, Mel Giedroyc, Rylan, Sara Cox and Tyler West.

> Why it matters: A feel-good story that doubled its total in a day. Appeal night tonight.

I'm A Celebrity adapts its camp for Ade Adepitan

ITV has adapted the I'm A Celebrity camp for Paralympian Ade Adepitan, with deeper pathways, parking bays, rest areas and a stairlift to the jungle shower, per Radio Times and LADbible. ITV's line-up was confirmed on Tuesday. The series starts on Monday 16 November at 9pm on ITV1 and ITVX.

> Why it matters: Strong build-up for next week's biggest TV launch. The camp story adds a human angle.

GTA 6 pre-orders are “far above expectations” as launch nears

Take-Two says GTA 6 pre-orders are “tracking far above our initial expectations” but hasn’t given a number. Sensor Tower estimates about 10 million, up from its 7.71 million estimate last week. Selfridges opened a pop-up on Oxford Street on Monday and boxed copies started arriving on Thursday. The game launches on Thu 19 Nov.

> Why it matters: A launch that kept making news all week. Expect a feed takeover next Thursday.

Christmas ads kept the week talking: Waitrose, M&S and Disney

M&S's "The Home of Christmas", with James Norton as a beardless Santa, launched on Friday 6 Nov. Disney's short "The Invisible Horse" followed on 9 Nov. Waitrose released a six-minute sequel on Tuesday, which it calls the longest ad made by a UK supermarket. Quince's David Schwimmer ad also revived Ross's red sweater.

> Why it matters: Christmas ads are the season's biggest shared talking point. Waitrose and M&S led it.

Instagram's Edits had a busy week: a Mac app and Effect Builder

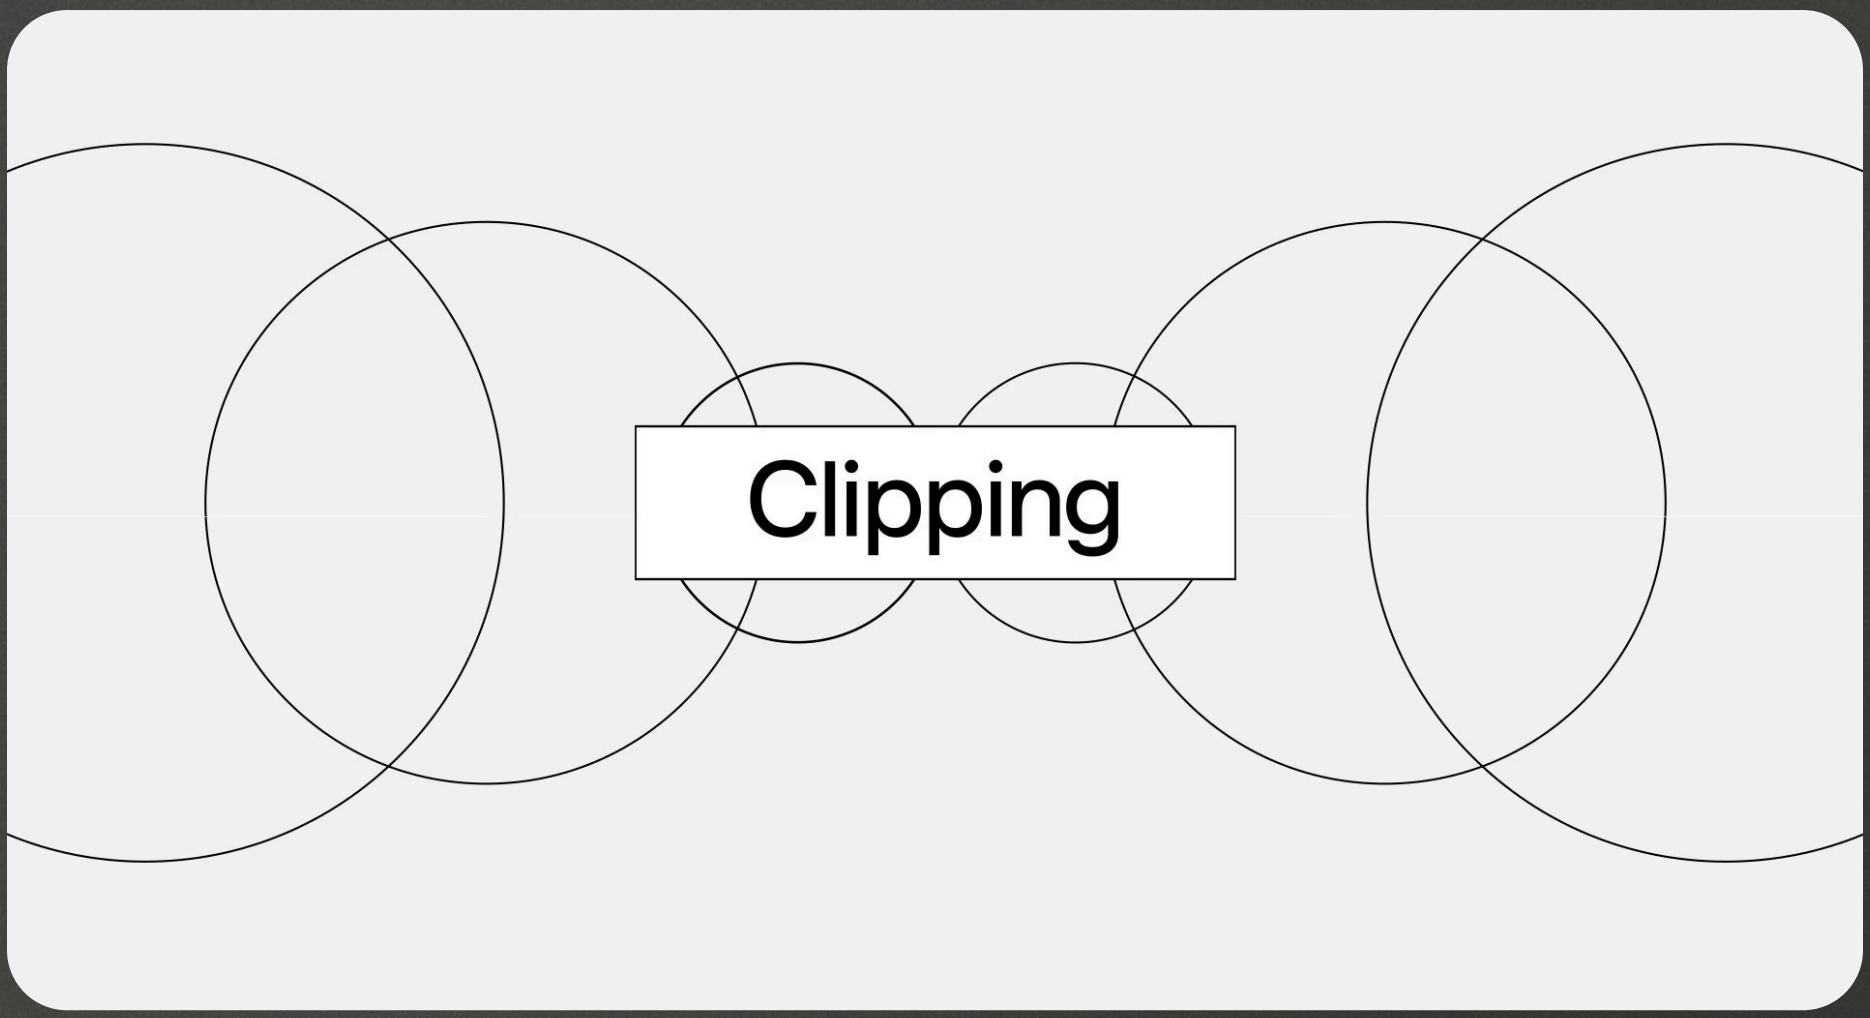

Edits launched a Mac app on 5 Nov, with a multi-track timeline and 4K watermark-free export, per Social Media Today and TechCrunch. On 9 Nov Instagram launched Effect Builder, a web tool for AI effects in Stories, but its Edits blog says it is US-only for people over 18.

> Why it matters: Instagram is pushing creators to its editing app. Effect Builder isn't in the UK yet.

X added clip video and previewed AI moderation labels

X now lets users clip videos longer than two minutes into 5 to 60 second shares that credit the original, per X Creators. X's head of brand safety also previewed designs for labels that explain why its AI flagged a post, Adweek reports. The labels are a design preview, not a confirmed rollout.

> Why it matters: X made reaction clips easier and talked about moderation. Neither is a UK-specific launch.

LinkedIn explained its feed and tested a frequent viewer label

LinkedIn's engineering blog says its Profile Relevance system uses LLM embeddings to match posts from people you don't follow, and it cut hide rates by 18.8% in tests. Wired reports LinkedIn is also testing a "frequent viewer" label for some Premium users. LinkedIn confirmed the test.

> Why it matters: LinkedIn is showing how its feed works and testing a profile-view feature.
